Join the Yale student delegation to visit the United Nations

The United Nations and the Rights of Indigenous Peoples Series is seeking applications from students to participate in a special delegation to New York to the United Nations.

The trip will take place on Friday, October 11th (all day activity). The participants will have the opportunity to meet with delegates representing Member States and UN officials, and be part of a UN session.

The students selected will be required to attend two preparatory workshops before traveling to New York at Yale University:
- October 4th, 1:00-2:00 pm.
- October 9th, 5:30-6:30 pm.
